CTN TAKES SAN DIEGO TO THE MOVIES
County Television Network Launches "Classic Theater Night" Friday, Mar. 3

County Television Network (CTN) today announced it will launch a new series, "Classic Theater Night," beginning Friday, Mar. 3 at 8 p.m. The 2-1/2 hour-long program begins with the 1940 black-and-white classic, "His Girl Friday," starring Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell.

"Classic Theater Night" will feature the best of old Hollywood with a collection of 20 curated public domain movies. Upcoming films include: "Till The Clouds Roll By" (1946, starring Robert Walker, Lucille Bremer and Van Heflin), "They Made Me A Criminal" (1939, starring John Garfield), "Little Shop of Horrors" (1960, starring Jack Nicholson), "A Star is Born" (1937, starring Janet Gaynor and Fredric March), and "My Man Godfrey" (1936, starring William Powell and Carole Lombard).

"'Classic Theater Night" gives viewers one more reason to tune in CTN and discover the wide variety of programming we offer," said Michael Workman, director of media and public relations. "We are committed to providing San Diego County residents with programs ranging from up-to-the-minute coverage of the Board of Supervisors to entertaining programs related to our County departments."

The movies featured on "Classic Theater Night" are available for checkout from the County's library system.

CTN is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week on Cox Communications, Channel 17, Time-Warner, Channel 22, and Daniels Cablevision, Channels 51 & 66, although programming is not available in all areas at all times. CTN's complete program schedule is available on the County's Web site at www.co.san-diego.ca.us/ctn.

CTN is funded with cable television franchise fees. Cable subscribers who are unable to get CTN in their cable service area are encouraged to contact their local cable company and request that CTN be added to their channel selection.
